

Privacy Policy

Our Privacy Policy is all about personal information - all the things we know about you. Because your information is so important to us, we'll always be honest and transparent about how we handle it. If you are an Australian customer, the Policy explains how we collect your personal information, what we do with it, and, most importantly, how it's protected. It all comes down to Conekt Australia being much more than just an ICT Provider.

Why we collect personal information

We collect personal information from you when it is reasonably necessary for a business purpose. That means we collect it to supply you with the products you have asked for and to provide you with the best possible service. Other reasons we collect personal information are to:

- Understand you, and how we can meet your needs now and in the future.
- Develop or evaluate products.
- Make ads more relevant to you, whether they're about our products or those of other companies.
- Manage our business.
- Comply with our legal obligations.

The type of information we collect

Conekt Australia collects personal information like your name, address, date of birth, gender, occupation, interests, location, contact details, payment details, financial information, and information about how and where you purchase and use our products. There are a few different ways we collect this information.

What we collect straight from you

We collect most personal information directly from you. For example, you might fill out a form online or give it to one of our representatives on the phone. Of course, you can choose not to provide your personal information or may just want to deal with us anonymously. If this happens, we may not be able to provide you with the product you've asked for or give you the level of service you expect.

What we collect while you are with us

We also collect personal information during our relationship with you. For example, we may collect personal information: When you pay your bill or purchase products.
When you use our products, apps or self-service channels.
When you join or use our rewards programs.

What we collect from your online activity

Conekt Australia' websites and apps use cookies and other digital identifiers. These include:

Site performance identifiers: these give us information about how our websites or apps are used. This helps us provide you with a more user-friendly experience.
Analytics cookies: we use these to gather statistics about our site and apps. For example, they help us monitor how many users are on the site or app, and what sections are most popular.
Advertising cookies: we use these cookies to improve our understanding of the kind of advertising that may be relevant to your aggregated segment.

We may also use cookies or digital identifiers so that when you visit third party websites, relevant advertising from Conekt Australia can be displayed to your aggregated segment. It's important to know you can clear cookies or digital identifiers from your device and also disable future use of them by changing the security settings on your web browser. However, doing this might mean that parts of Conekt Australia websites and apps may not work as they should.

What we collect from others

Other people might give us personal information about you. For example, we might be given personal information by your employer if you use our business products, or by your parent or guardian if you are under 18. We may also collect personal information from other companies that are able to disclose it to us, if it's not practical to collect it from you. For example, we buy or obtain personal information from trusted sources to help us identify people who might be interested in hearing about our products. We will take reasonable steps to make sure you know we have your personal information, how we got it and how we'll handle it.

Your credit situation

We collect some types of personal information to assess your credit situation when you apply for certain services. The collection of personal information is for the primary purpose which includes the assessment of a credit application, reviewing existing credit terms, assessing credit worthiness, collecting overdue payments, assessing credit guarantees (current and prospective), internal management purposes, marketing, sales and business development purposes and direct marketing.

Insights from statistics and research

We aggregate and process personal information to generate new insights about our network, products and customers, so we can provide you with the best possible service.

Sensitive personal information

When we talk about sensitive information, we mean details about your race, ethnicity, politics, religious or philosophical beliefs, sexual preferences, health, genetics or criminal record. Generally speaking, we don't need sensitive information about you - it's just none of our business. There may be times when you choose to tell us about your health, and we might collect biometric information for use with new technologies like voice or fingerprint recognition. This could happen as technology changes and evolves over time. Remember, this kind of information will only be collected with your permission, and we will only use it for the purpose for which you provided it.

Coenkt Australia and who we work with We may share your personal information within the wider Conekt Australia Group of associated companies. We also work with a number of other companies, and in certain circumstances may share personal information with them too.

Parties we work with

We sometimes team up with other companies to offer products. If you purchase a product that is delivered by one of our partners, we'll give them the personal information they need to provide it and manage their relationship with you. In these circumstances, we have arrangements in place with our partners that limit their use or disclosure of your personal information to these purposes.

Outsourcing

We work with third parties to provide some types of sales, business and customer support. They may have access to systems that include your personal information. These companies are subject to strict controls that protect your information from unauthorized use or disclosure, and limit their access to your personal information to the extent necessary to do their job.

Access to personal information from overseas

Our outsourcing partners are only given secure access to the personal information they need to do their job. Conekt Australia maintains effective control of your information at all times, including by ensuring that parties located overseas are subject to strict controls that limit access and subsequent handling of your information to the extent strictly necessary to perform the relevant function and protect your information from unauthorised use and disclosure. We do have different arrangements in place for some larger business customers.

Outstanding payments

Debt is way up there on the 'things absolutely no one likes' list.

In some circumstances, we may need to refer or sell overdue debts to debt collectors or other companies. If we do this, we'll give them secure access to the personal information they need to handle the debt. We may also update credit reporting agencies about some types of payment defaults, although we'll always tell you before we do this.

Legal obligations and other privacy exceptions

We give access to personal information where we are permitted or obliged to do so by Australian law. For example, in some circumstances we will use or disclose personal information to react to unlawful activity, serious misconduct, or to reduce or prevent a serious threat to life, health or safety. We are obliged to cooperate with law enforcement bodies in some circumstances. We may disclose personal information, including information about phone calls and service use, when we receive an access request or warrant that is authorised under Australian law. We also give information about some of our telephone products to the Integrated Public Number Database, where it's used to do things like write phone directories and assist with the dispatch of emergency services.

Others

We will only disclose personal information to others if you've given us permission, or if the disclosure relates to the main reason we collected the information and you'd reasonably expect us to do so.

Advertising

Everyone hates being bombarded with ads for things they don't need or have any interest in. Conekt Australia may use your personal information to send you advertising that is customised or more relevant to your interests, characteristics or general location. This doesn't necessarily mean you'll get more advertising. It just means that the advertising that you see will hopefully be more relevant to you.

Advertising Conekt Australia products

Conekt Australia advertises by mail, phone, email, text, and online via the internet and in apps.

Advertising other products

We may also work with other companies to advertise their products online. We won't give them access to your personal information when we do this. Instead, we would work with them to understand the type of audience they want to advertise to, and deliver the ad for them.

Opting out

We'll make sure that any marketing emails, texts and letters we send you clearly tell you how to opt out, or you can tell our phone staff. You can opt out of receiving online relevant advertising material at any time by clicking on the unsubscribe link at the bottom of the email, or by calling us on 1300 266 358. When you opt out, you can choose to opt out of particular direct marketing, or all direct marketing. Of course, there are some types of marketing we can't control on an individual basis, like general letterbox drops or online ads that are not targeted specifically to you.

Credit related information

Conekt Australia uses personal information to assess your credit situation when you apply for some products. For example, we generally do a credit assessment before you take a product with a monthly billing account. We might ask you for information about yourself and things like your employment details and credit history, and then seek a credit report from a credit reporting agency. We'll always tell you before we seek a credit report, and we won't get one if you're under 18. The credit report provided by a credit reporting agency may include information like your employment history, previous credit checks, any problems you've had paying bills and whether those issues were resolved. Conekt Australia uses this information to assess whether we're entering into an arrangement that is sensible for both you and us.

After you become a customer, we store the crucial bits of information from the credit report and our own credit assessment. We may continue to use this information to manage credit, and to make sure we're offering and providing the right services to you. Conekt Australia doesn't use credit related information to generate marketing lists. Sometimes, we might ask a credit reporting agency to do that for us. You can ask the credit reporting agency not to use your information for these purposes by getting in touch with them directly. Conekt Australia works with customer service partners inside and outside Australia on credit related matters. Where necessary, we give our partners access to the credit information they need to help manage credit and your services. You can get access to credit related information we hold about you, ask us to correct it, or make a complaint, as described elsewhere in this policy. If we agree that our records need to be corrected, and we've previously disclosed that information to a credit reporting agency or other person, we'll tell them about the correction too. You can ask the credit reporting agencies not to use or disclose the information in their files if you think you have been or are likely to become a victim of fraud. You can find out more about the credit reporting agencies Conekt Australia works with at www.marshallfreeman.com.au. Their websites give their contact details and their policies about the management of your personal information.

Security

Security is serious. We're committed to protecting your personal information. Some of the security measures we use include:

Firewalls and access logging tools that protect against unauthorised access to your data and our network. Secure work environments and workflow systems that prevent unauthorised access and copying of your personal information. Secure server and closed network environments, Encryption of data in transit, Virus scanning tools, Management of access privileges, to ensure that only those who really need it can see your personal information, Ongoing training and security reviews.

These measures are robust, but security risks do change. We will remain vigilant in our efforts to protect your personal information.

How to access your personal information

If you ask us, we will usually give you access to the personal information we hold about you. We will always confirm your identity before giving access to your personal information. You can ask for access by calling us on 1300 266 358. It will really help if you tell us what you're looking for. There are circumstances under Australian privacy laws where we may not give you access to the personal information we hold about you. For example, we can't give you access if it would unreasonably affect someone else's privacy or if giving you access poses a serious threat to someone's life, health or safety. There is generally no cost for accessing the personal information we hold about you, unless the request is complex or resource intensive. If there is a charge, it will be reasonable and we will let you know what it is going to be so that you can agree to it before we go ahead.

Quality of Personal Information

We aim to keep the personal information we hold about you accurate, up-to-date and complete. If you think our records need to be corrected, please call us on 1300 266 358.

We encourage you to update your details with us so we can deliver better service to you, and so the others we work with (like emergency services) have access to the information they need to do their job.

Getting In Touch

We recognise that your personal information is important to you, so please let us know if you have any questions or concerns about this policy or our practices. If you make a complaint about privacy, we will acknowledge receipt of your complaint, and try to investigate and respond to you within 30 days. If you are unhappy with the outcome, you can lodge a complaint with the Telecommunications Industry Ombudsman.
